Project Title: Yayoi Kusama Website

I'll most likely build this site as a multiple page website separated by different topics as there's quite a bit of content. There will be a navigation bar so that users could go to these different pages. Her work is very colorful and various, so I have a lot of room to play around with for the design and overall feel of the site. There seems to be many high-quality pictures of her and her work so finding images shouldn't be a problem

- Landing Page/Introduction — Set the general feel and tone of the website, not too much text content, more imagery based.
- Biography
- Meaning of work
- Work and publication
- Sources — debating if I should have a separate sources page or just reference the sources as they come.
